Fourth, transferring the case to California would not violate the public policy of New Hampshire. On the contrary, the purpose of a forum selection clause “is, at least in part, to protect defendants and give them a voice as to where a dispute will be heard and resolved.” Claudio-De Leon, 775 F.3d at 47 (citing Huffington v. T.C. Grp., LLC, 637 F.3d 18, 22-23 & n.3 (1st Cir. 2011); C. Pappas Co. v. E. & J. Gallo Winery, 565 F. Supp. 1015, 1018 (D. Mass. 1983)). Here, transferring the cases is consistent with this State’s public policy.

Taken together, there is no reason to overcome “the presumption of enforceability” requiring plaintiffs to bring their claims against Google and YouTube in the Northern District of California. If the case survives at all, it should be transferred.

IV. CONCLUSION

For the reasons above, Defendants Google and YouTube respectfully request that the Court dismiss Plaintiff’s claims with prejudice. Alternatively, any surviving claims against Google and YouTube should be transferred to the Northern District of California.

Additionally, because this claim relates only to the payment of money damages, Plaintiff cannot show irreparable harm. See Vaqueria Tres Monjitas, 587 F.3d at 485.

B. No Hearing Is Necessary to Adjudicate This Motion.

Plaintiff's Motion is meritless and the Court has already received Defendants' briefing on these issues. There is no need for the parties to appear and argue about these baseless claims.<sup>4</sup>

<sup>4</sup> To the extent Plaintiff seeks reimbursement of his costs to travel to and from any hearing, he cites no authority to support shifting those costs to Defendants.

<sup>5</sup> These same arguments in this objection apply to Plaintiff's Ex-Parte Emergency Motion ("the Ex Parte Motion"), Dkt. 4, although it is unclear that Plaintiff himself actually brought the motion as it is signed by Natasha DeLima. The Ex Parte Motion makes similar assertions (e.g., that Defendants have locked him out of his accounts) and asks for similar relief, such as the return of "virtual property" and the payment of alleged compensation due. Dkt. 4 at 2-3. These assertions lack merit, as outlined in Defendants' motions to dismiss, which means Plaintiff cannot show any likelihood of success on the merits, much less a strong likelihood. See Dkts. 24-25. Setting aside the merits, Plaintiff's Ex Parte Motion fails to show any irreparable harm justifying preliminary relief. Lastly, the allegations are not specific to Plaintiff and the pleading is signed by someone else. Accordingly, the Ex Parte Motion should also be denied.

about how these alleged actions irreparably harmed Plaintiff. And to the extent this claim (or any other) is related only to having lost money, that type of harm is not irreparable. See Vaqueria Tres Monjitas, 587 F.3d at 485 (“traditional economic damages” that, if proven could “be remedied by compensatory awards” . . . “do not rise to the level of being irreparable.”).

B. The Court Should Deny Plaintiff’s Request for Sanctions.

Plaintiff also asks for “sanctions” against Defendants if they “tamper with [his accounts] again.” Dkt. 9 at 1. There is no legal or factual basis for a preliminary injunction, let alone for sanctions, particularly based on speculative, uncertain future conduct. This request should be denied.

IV. CONCLUSION

Defendants respectfully request that the Court deny Plaintiff’s Motion.

other words, by its terms, default is appropriate only where a party has not responded to a plaintiff's complaint. Google and YouTube jointly moved to dismiss Plaintiff's Complaint on May 8, 2018, fourteen days after service on Google. See Dkt. 24. Twitter moved to dismiss that same day (thirteen days after service). Dkt. 25. This was within the period set out by this Court's Order of March 14.<sup>4</sup> See Dkt. 6. Google and Twitter each appeared on May 3, and no separate notice of appearance was required for YouTube. See Local Rule 83.6.

There is no basis to find a party in default where the party has appeared, responded to the Complaint, and is litigating the case. To the extent that Plaintiff seeks a default judgment, he is not entitled to such a judgment because Defendants are not in default. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 55(b).

7013826, at *3. “As a consequence, a district court may consider arguments about public-interest factors only.” Atl. Marine, 571 U.S. at 65. Here, transferring the case would not violate the public policy of New Hampshire. To the contrary, the purpose of a forum selection clause “is, at least in part, to protect defendants and give them a voice as to where a dispute will be heard and resolved.” Claudio-De Leon, 775 F.3d at 47 (citing Huffington v. T.C. Grp., LLC, 637 F.3d 18, 22-23 & n.3 (1st Cir. 2011); C. Pappas Co. v. E. & J. Gallo Winery, 565 F. Supp. 1015, 1018 (D. Mass. 1983)). Transferring the case is therefore consistent with this State’s public policy.

Taken together, there is no reason to override “the presumption of enforceability” that requires Plaintiff to bring his complaint against Defendants in the Northern District of California. Therefore, if any claims survive, they should be transferred accordingly.

IV. CONCLUSION

For the reasons above, Defendants respectfully request that the Court dismiss Plaintiff’s claims with prejudice. Alternatively, any surviving claims against Defendants should be transferred to the Northern District of California.

Respectfully submitted,

Counsel for Defendants

Accordingly, Defendants request that this Motion to Stay be granted, that the Court continue the June 26 hearing (and any associated deadlines), and continue any deadlines to respond to motions filed by Plaintiff since the March 14, 2018 Order or filed hereafter, until after resolution of Defendants' Motions to Dismiss.

C. Request for Expedited Relief

Defendants asks that the Court grant this relief on an expedited basis, pursuant to Local Rule 7.1(f). There is urgency given that (1) the deadline for the parties to confer, prepare for, and appear at a hearing is fast approaching and (2) Plaintiff has continued to file more motions and requests for relief that are duplicative, unnecessary, and inappropriate.

Defendants have attempted to engage with Plaintiff in good faith and respond diligently to the pleadings filed in this case, but now are forced to seek Court relief. Defendants sought to resolve this with Plaintiff and seek assent to this relief, but were unable to. Defendants thus request that the Court enter a stay pending resolution of Defendants' Motions to Dismiss.

IV. CONCLUSION AND RELIEF REQUESTED

For the foregoing reasons, Defendants request that the Court continue the initial conference currently set for June 26, 2018 (and all associated deadlines), and continue any deadlines for Defendants' to respond to Plaintiff's motions filed since the March 14, 2018 Order or filed hereafter, until after it rules on the Defendants' Motions to Dismiss.

that a single attorney cannot represent several defendants in the same action. Moreover, Plaintiff has not identified what pleadings are “illicit,” much less explained how they are illicit.

<sup>2</sup> Blogspot.com is owned by Google and used with Google's service Blogger. Google has responded to Plaintiff's allegations as to Blogspot.com.

<sup>3</sup> This is effectively the same request Plaintiff made in his earlier "Joint Motion to Strike Answers of Facebook and Twitter," Dkt. 70, and "Motion to Strike Illicit Pleadings," Dkt. 57. The Motion also includes personal attacks on defense counsel, refers to bar complaints Plaintiff is pursuing against defense counsel, and makes false allegations regarding defense counsel's conduct. These allegations are baseless, and have no bearing on this Motion or case.

5. However, Twitter intends to file a joint response with the Google Entities and none of the Google Entities have yet been served.

6. Twitter therefore moves the Court for an extension of time to respond to Plaintiff's Complaint and motions so that its responses are due at the same time as the Google Entities, which would be twenty-one (21) days following service of Google or YouTube, whichever is later.

7. Pursuant to Local Rule 7.1(c), counsel for Twitter has conferred with Plaintiff, who assents to the relief requested herein.

8. Due to the nature of this motion, no memorandum of law is necessary.

WHEREFORE, Defendant Twitter respectfully requests that this Honorable Court:

- A) Grant the Motion;
- B) Extend the time for Twitter to respond to Plaintiff's Complaint and motions so that its responses are due at the same time as the Google Entities, which would be twenty-one (21) days following service of Google or YouTube, whichever is later;
- C) Grant such further relief as this Court deems just and necessary.

“harass[ing] her and highlight[ing] the false content under her name, which they continue to highlight.”

Google has already responded to this assertion. See Dkt. 57. In sum, it is unclear what Plaintiff is claiming because Plaintiff alleges in her Complaint only that Google removed her blog from the Internet. See Dkt. 1 ¶¶ 8, 16. There are no facts regarding a “fake profile” and no attendant cause of action either. Further, any purported constitutional violations fail because Google is not a state actor, and any claims based on exercises of Google’s editorial discretion, such as a decision to remove content (or not), are barred by the CDA and the First Amendment.

B. No Hearing Is Necessary to Adjudicate This Motion.

Plaintiff’s Motion is meritless and the Court has already received Defendants’ briefing on these issues. There is no need for the parties to appear and argue about these baseless claims.

B. Plaintiff Is Not Entitled to a Default Ruling Against Defendants.

If Plaintiff seeks a default ruling against Defendants, she is not entitled to that either. Default may only be entered “[w]hen a party against whom a judgment for affirmative relief is sought has failed to plead or otherwise defend” against the Complaint. Fed. R. Civ. P. 55(a). does not identify any specific laws (other than an EU regulation) that she believes Defendants are violating, does not identify the “virtual laws” that she claims Defendants are following instead, and does not explain how those “virtual laws” conflict with what she calls “actual” laws.

At bottom, Plaintiff does not seek any relief, and has not provided a basis for relief in any event. The Motion, like the 28 other motions Plaintiff has filed thus far, should be denied.

Respectfully submitted, attorney cannot represent several defendants in the same action. Moreover, Plaintiff has not identified what pleadings are “illicit,” much less explained how they are illicit.

Lastly, as with all Plaintiff’s prior motions in this matter, the Motion violates Local Rule 7.1(c) because Plaintiff has not provided a certification of a good faith attempt to obtain concurrence in the relief sought. It should be denied for this additional reason.

Defendants therefore respectfully request that the Court deny Plaintiff’s Motion.

Respectfully submitted, to dismiss both Plaintiff's initial complaint and First Amended Complaint ("FAC"), see Dkts. 56, 71, 84, and 95, and no separate notices of appearance were required because, under Local Rule 83.6, "[t]he filing of an appearance or any signed filing, except a motion under LR 83.2, constitutes an appearance by the attorney who signs it." Defendants' initial motion to dismiss therefore served as their notice of appearance, and no separate notice was required.

Lastly, as with all Plaintiff's prior motions in this matter, the Motion violates Local Rule 7.1(c) because Plaintiff has not provided a certification of a good faith attempt to obtain concurrence in the relief sought. It should be denied for this additional reason.

at 4 (rejecting Plaintiff's "settlement demands" and noting that "[s]uch documents are not properly filed on the court's docket"). Ultimately, Plaintiff's Memorandum is a baseless attack on defense counsel, and has no bearing on the merits of this case. Defendants therefore respectfully request that the Court either take no action concerning this Memorandum, because it is not a proper motion, or affirmatively deny it to the extent Plaintiff is seeking any relief.

Respectfully submitted,
